The programme for our fifth annual festival is undoubtedly our best ever. We’ve selected some of the finest films we could lay our hands on from the three continents and will be hosting Cinema Nouveau sponsored by Jameson screenings across four cities – Johannesburg, Cape Town, Durban and Pretoria. It is also the 30th anniversary of Steve Biko’s death and the festival wishes to acknowledge his legacy of raising consciousness and fighting for justice as our inspiration.

We have record numbers of local films lined up for you and the festival is a partner of the People to People Documentary Film Conference, taking place in Johannesburg (13th – 15th September). This means more appearances at screenings by international filmmakers as well as contributions from our own home grown local talent.

With 2007 marking the 40th anniversary of the death of another great hero, Che Guevara, we pay tribute with a selection of films showing the historical relationship between Cuba and Africa (Focus on Cuba). Children, the worst victims of war and poverty, often provide us with the most poignant social messages (Children’s Voices). We include a stunning selection of hip hop cinema (Young Urban Poets) showing music as an enduring political force and not forgetting 2010, we have a selection of films that celebrate the unity forged by the game of football (One Nil to Human Rights).

In 2003 when we came up with the concept of showcasing human rights, conscious cinema from the three continents, we never expected the festival to become the touchstone for something much bigger. In fact, our festival has spread to India, where our partners, Breakthrough, run an annual event that reaches tens of thousands of people.

This important showcasing of red hot films that matter would not be possible without the backing and energy of numerous filmmakers, activists and various organizations that have lined up behind this exciting initiative and in particular, the financial support we receive from our partners. To all those who make this event possible, we offer our deepest gratitude.

Enjoy the festival!

Have You Heard From Johannesburg?:
Apartheid And The Club Of The West
(Special preview screening)

USA, 2006. 89 mins.
Director: Connie Field

South Africans waged their freedom struggle in four strategic arenas: mass action, underground organization, armed struggle, and international mobilization. Have You Heard From Johannesburg, a six part documentary series, takes viewers inside that last arena, the movement to mobilize worldwide action to isolate the apartheid regime. Story 4: Apartheid And The Club Of The West, traces the fascinating drama of the anti-apartheid movement in the US, where African Americans were at the centre of the struggle. When a stunning victory is won, against the formidable opposition of President Ronald Reagan, African-Americans, for the first time in history, turn the tide and alter the direction of US foreign policy. The US, once the backbone of support for the apartheid regime as her ally in the Cold War, finally imposes sanctions on Pretoria.

The Glow of White Women
South Africa, 2007. 78 mins.
Director: Yunus Vally

Sex and politics are the themes of this humorous and entertaining film, looking at white women in the dark continent and focussing on the forbidden sexual desires of blacks and whites under apartheid. As a Muslim kid raised in the racist, provincial town of Nelspruit, filmmaker Yunus Vally prayed five times a day and fully expected to end up in paradise. Born under a system that proclaimed white as beautiful, Yunus was convinced that the promised virgins of paradise would all be white. This is his story. This is his film.

The City That Kills Somalians
World Premiere
South Africa, 2007. 48 mins. Subtitles
Director: Riaan Hendricks

Set in Cape Town, a city where socio economic division exists largely on racial lines, The City That Kills Somalians documents moments in the lives of the city’s impoverished people. What starts out as an observational film, builds into a story that draws the viewer into the uncomfortable racial tensions of the city as they impact on the director. Through intimate footage, this hard hitting film sensitively unpeels the tough layers of Cape Town, giving voice to the unspoken silence of a people in need to talk to each other.
Love, Communism, Revolution and Rivonia – Bram Fischer’s Story

South Africa, 2006. 80 mins.
Director: Sharon Farr

Bram Fischer, a child of Afrikaner aristocracy, eventually came to lead the South African Communist Party in the struggle against apartheid. At the Rivonia Trial, he saved Mandela and others from execution. When all his comrades were jailed or exiled, he took a defiant solitary stand, living in disguise as apartheid’s most wanted man until his capture and sentence to life imprisonment in 1966. This is a personal and moving story of courage, conviction and an unswerving vision of a non-racial South Africa.

We Are Together

UK, 2007. 83 mins. Subtitles
Director: Paul Taylor

Life has not been easy for 12-year-old Slindile, her siblings and her friends at the Agape Orphanage in South Africa, where most of the children have lost their parents to AIDS. But they are still kids and teenagers, bashful around boys, squabbling with each other. And when they lift their voices in song, something extraordinary happens. Filmed over three years and spanning two continents, We Are Together is the story of an orphanage, unlike one you’ve ever seen before. With unforgettable kids, soaring music and a plot full of surprises, the film arrives as a stirring and uplifting theatrical documentary.

Keiskamma, A Story of Love

South Africa, 2007. 90 mins. Subtitles
Director: Miki Redelinghuys

Keiskamma follows Dr Carol Hofmeyer-Baker, as she travels bumpy Eastern Cape roads, between hospice and home visits. On her travels, she meets Nkululeko, a lonely, bright-eyed 13-year old boy who has lost his family through HIV/AIDS. What follows is a story about how love can change the course of someone’s life.

Another Man’s Garden

Feature

Mozambique, 2006. 95 mins. Subtitles
Director: Sol de Carvalho

Sofia is a 19-year old girl who lives in a poor suburb of Maputo. In Mozambique AIDS has become a national calamity and men still reject the use of condoms. Sofia is from a poor family and wants desperately to enter university and become a doctor. Her daily struggle is compounded by the fact that her teacher, whom she suspects has HIV, sexually harasses her and manipulates her exam results to force her to sleep with him. Her saga unfolds in a society where to encourage a woman to study is tantamount to “watering another man’s garden”.

Awards:

Mini’s Song World Premiere

South Africa, 2006. 79 mins.
Director: Andrew Jones

On November 6, 1964, Vuyisile Mini became the first trade unionist to be executed by the former apartheid regime. On his way to the gallows he sang a song to inspire courage in himself and in all those left to fight. This unashamedly pro Food and Allied Workers Union documentary, using stills, file footage, song and testimony, profiles the past, present and future of one of South Africa’s oldest unions. The film profiles legendary stalwarts of the workers’ movement, including Liz Abrahams, Rocky Mafikeng and Oscar Mpetha and features the song Mini sang as he faced the ultimate punishment for his convictions.
The Devil Came on Horseback
African Premiere
USA, 2007. 85 mins.
Director: Annie Sundberg and Ricki Stern

An emotionally charged journey into the heart of Darfur, Sudan, where an Arab run government is systematically ridding the province of its black African citizens. As an official military observer, American eyewitness, Steidle, has access to parts of the country that no journalist could penetrate. He is unprepared for what he sees, but worse than anything is the despair of not being allowed to intervene to save the lives of young children. Ultimately frustrated by the inaction of the international community, Steidle resigns and returns to the US to expose the images and stories of lives systematically destroyed.

Juju Factory
Feature
DRC, 2007. 90 mins. Subtitles
Director: Balufu Bakupa-Kayinda

This debut feature from Congolese director Balufu Bakupa-Kanyinda provides a slice of life of the contemporary Congolese community in Brussels. Protagonist, Kongo, is asked to write a travel book that entices a European audience. During his research, Kongo is visited by tormented souls who inspire him to write about Congolese history and its many ghosts. Will Kongo give in to notions of the exotic and betray his gut feeling, or will he follow the path of compromise and ensure his survival through a publishing deal?

Amina
Yemen, 2006. 75 mins. Subtitles
Director: Khadija Al-Salami

A chilling account of life on death row for Yemini women. Amina, the title character, is a young mother of three, accused of killing her husband. Facing the death sentence, she protests her innocence and fights to clear her name. As Amina’s story unfolds, we get a picture of a society where young women fall victim to early marriage. What is special about this film is the unique access gained by Kadija Al-Salami into the everyday life of female prisoners.

Awards:
Dubai Film Festival - Silver Muher Award.

Enemies of Happiness
Denmark, 2006. 58 mins. Subtitles
Director: Eva Mulvad

Enemies of Happiness follows Afghanistan’s 2005 democratic parliamentary election, the first in over 30 years. Female candidate, Malalai Joya, is a controversial voice in a nation ruined by war and where tradition rules. Having survived repeated assassination attempts, she spreads her message surrounded by guards and impending danger. Will the presence of western soldiers be enough to help women gain political voice in a country where votes are for sale and women cannot leave their children to vote?

Smiling in a War Zone

Denmark, 2006. 77 mins. Subtitles
Director: Magnus Bejmar

When artist, pilot and filmmaker Simone Aaberg Kærn hears about a young Afghan girl whose dream is to become a fighter pilot, she buys the only plane she can afford, a tiny 40-year old Piper-Colt, that needs gas every three hours and maps out a 6000 km flight plan from Denmark to Afghanistan. Flying through a number of former war zones, Simone challenges every military authority she comes across and defies the American military’s refusal to allow her entry into Afghanistan. Archival footage of female fighter pilots from World War II turn this travelogue into a tribute to all flying women and the freedom of the sky.

Awards:
In the Shadow of the Palms
African Premiere

Australia, 2006. 90 mins. Subtitles
Director: Wayne Coles-Janess

Wayne Coles-Janess shot In the Shadow of the Palms, before, during and after the fall of Saddam Hussein, following a cross-section of individuals and documenting their reactions to the war. This first of its kind film shows how war changes a nation by throwing people’s sense of control over their lives into the air, removing all familiarity and hope. For some, the ensuing human tragedy is too much, while for others it’s a call to arms. A must see for all those sceptical of stereotypical and embedded reporters of this controversial war.

Awards:
Winner - Bangkok, Yamagata, Tiburon, Anchorage, Atlanta.
Official Selection at 50 international festivals.

American Fugitive: The Truth About Hassan
African Premiere

Canada, 2006. 75 mins.
Director: Jean-Daniel Lafond

When, in 2001, Iranian director Mohsen Makmalbaf’s feature film Kandahar was acclaimed in Cannes and shown around the world, the international press picked up on a surprising appearance. The film’s African-American “doctor” was in fact a man called David Belfield, wanted in the United States for murder, and now living in exile in Iran. American Fugitive: The Truth About Hassan tells the story of this wanted man, an American known in Iran as Hassan Abdulrahman, who says: “There is life after America.” A tale emerges of an unrepentant assassin, covert networks, international political manipulation and state-sponsored violence.

Awards:
Nominated for 4 Gémeaux Awards 2007 (Academy of Canadian Cinema and Television) - Best Social Documentary, Best Direction, Best Research, Best Editing.
Rendez-vous du cinéma québécois, Montreal 2007- Finalist for the Alex and Ruth Dworkin Prize for Tolerance.

The Birthday
African Premiere

Holland, 2006. 63 mins. Subtitles
Director: Negin Kianfar and Daisy Mohr

The Birthday follows a young man in Iran as he goes through the process of becoming a woman through a transsexual operation. He has the support of his boyfriend and to a certain extent his family too. Amongst his friends are other transsexuals, one of them a woman becoming a man. All are religious; all of them are changing their sexual identity. The film asks the question, why would a “free” man choose to become an “unfree” woman and lead a veiled life? A portrait of schizophrenic lives in a schizophrenic environment.

Awards:

Ghosts of Abu Ghraib

USA, 2006. 78 mins. Subtitles
Director: Rory Kennedy

In 2003 heinous acts of abuse took place in the Iraqi prison, Abu Ghraib. The infamous photos that emerged from this represent just the tip of the iceberg, pointing to systematic abuse from Guantanamo Bay to Afghanistan and beyond. Award winning filmmaker Rory Kennedy explores how the US administration’s decision to ignore the rules of the Geneva Convention provided the circumstances for typical boys and girls next door to commit atrocious acts of violence. Powerful, restrained and fiercely compelling, Ghosts of Abu Ghraib questions the blurred distinction between the American state forces and so-called terrorists.
Souvenirs
African Premiere

Israel, 2006. 75 mins. Subtitles
Director: Shahar Cohen & Halil Efrat

Shahar's father, a strict 82 year old Yemenite, wants his unemployed filmmaker son to make a film about the Jewish Brigade, where he served during WW2. Shahar becomes enthusiastic when he realizes that his father may have left some “souvenirs” behind. Secretly hoping to find his father’s long lost offspring, they embark on the trail of the Jewish Brigade, beginning in Israel and continuing through Italy, Germany and ending in Holland with a surprising discovery. With humour and compassion, the film exposes a complex father-son relationship, raising universal questions about the tension between memory and actual truth.

Bilin, My Love
African Premiere

Palestine/Israel, 2006. 85 mins. Subtitles
Director: Shai Carmeli Pollak

In an attempt to stop bulldozers from uprooting their olive trees and destroying their land to make way for a separation fence and a neighbouring Jewish settlement, the villagers of Bilin confront the Israeli army with creative direct action. In return they get beatings, arrests, tear gas, rubber bullets and live ammunition. Israeli director and former soldier, Shai Carmeli Pollak, himself comes into conflict with Israeli soldiers while filming and to this extent, Bilin, My Love, is an intimate portrayal of video activism.

Awards:
Jerusalem Film Festival - Best Documentary. Rotterdam, Movies that Matter - Special Award.
What is it Worth?
Feature.

Brazil, 2005. 110 mins. Subtitles
Director: Sergio Bianchi

Jumping between past and present, What is it Worth? draws comparison between slavery and the pseudo benevolence of charities tackling poverty in contemporary Brazil. The money these charities spend could buy every homeless child a home each. Where does all the money go and who is actually benefiting? Through an excellent script and great performances, Sergio Bianchi’s begs the question: is there any difference between slavery and the continuous exploitation of misery? What is all of this worth?

Revolucion
African Premiere

Canada, 2006. 86 mins. Subtitles
Director: Charles Gervais

Revolucion takes us through the tortuous path of revolution by placing the spotlight on the President of Venezuela, Hugo Chavez. As the architect of a new Bolivarian revolution, Chavez not only wants to free the Venezuelan people, but help the world rid itself of North American imperialism. Is he a freedom fighter, or a dangerous madman? In the heat of revolutionary struggle, greatness and madness can be hard to tell apart. When idealism is the only guide, there is a constant risk of losing control. And threats come from every direction within.
Surfing Favela

Director: James Leong and Lynn Lee

Homeless FC follows an unlikely group of men through one tumultuous year of training to take part in the Homeless World Cup in Cape Town. All the players of Hong Kong based Dawn Team have lived through some pretty dark times. And without exception, they all love the beautiful game. Only eight players can go, and everyone wants to be chosen. For the ones who eventually make it, the journey to South Africa is both magical and sobering. A chance to see the world, to meet other homeless people, and to re-assess their lives.
The SABC, Host Broadcaster for INPUT 2008, and its partners invite you...

Back to the Cradle of Humankind • Back to Africa • Back to the Beginning

The Input annual showcase is the World Cup of Public Television and next year it will be held in Joburg from 4th-10th May 2008. The SABC is the Host Broadcaster for Input 2008.

Input (the International Public Television organisation) stages a screening conference where the rules of broadcasting are challenged and redefined... the only international event that focuses specifically on cutting edge, public interest television. Every year for the past three decades it has been held in a different city around the world.

In association with Tri Continental Film Festival, Input will screen the following films (from Input 2007 in Switzerland):

INPUT has organised international television's most important and influential Annual Screening Conference for 30 years. This unique event - held in a different country each year - encourages the development of public service television by screening and debating the most outstanding programmes from around the world...a unique professional development opportunity for producers, directors, writers and all those who contribute to public interest television.

INPUT 2008 will be held in Joburg and in the lead-up to the conference, several INPUT events will be held across the African Continent.

The main aim of INPUT is to gather annually to showcase innovative and thought provoking television from both commercial and public broadcasters around the globe. INPUT 2008 will be a pan African event and the Host Broadcaster is the SABC. We invite all African film makers, television professionals, broadcasters and students to get involved with INPUT 2008.

Our partners include the National Film & Video Foundation (NFVF), the Gauteng Film Commission (GFC), the Gauteng Tourism Authority (GTA) and the African Broadcast Media Partnership (ABMP). The ABMP comprises 30 countries across our content and just over 49 broadcasters.

INPUT (the INternational PUblic Television organisation) was founded in 1977. It exists to:
- Encourage the highest quality television programming worldwide
- Support television as a service to the public
- Promote discussion and debate about the television craft
- Serve as a global meeting point for those who make television
- Recognise TV's potential to promote better understanding among the world's different cultures

Hip Hop Revolution

South Africa, 2006. 48 mins.
Director: Weeam Williams

This visually stimulating film, pumping with the sound of unreleased classics, explores the 25 year journey of hip hop in South Africa, right from its birth on the Cape Flats, through the insurgency of black consciousness and the political uprising in the ‘80s that disrupted the education of many youths. Interviews with Prophets of da City and Shamiel X, the first-generation pioneers of hip hop, explain how the African American art form mirrored their experiences and gave ‘80s youth a medium to express themselves, inciting a timely sense of black pride.

Counting Headz

South Africa, 2006. 48 mins. Subtitles
Director: Vusi Magubane and Erin Offer

South Africa’s blossoming hip hop industry has seen less booty-shaking and more proud ethnic female performers and crews releasing albums, playing at clubs and competing internationally across all forms of the culture. This feisty local film explores how, although all-pervasive misogyny and media discrimination continues to influence the (mis)representation of women in popular culture, these sistaz refuse to be intimidated. Interviews, discussions and inspirational performances by well known female MCs from around the country combine to unveil the true underground hip hop scene.

Mr Devious

South Africa, 2006. 73 mins. Subtitles
Director: John Fredericks

Mario “Mr Devious” van Rooy, an enigmatic hip-hop mc, is stabbed to death in his neighbourhood of Beacon Valley, Mitchell’s Plain, leaving a deafening silence. Filmmaker, John Fredericks struggles to make sense of his close friend’s untimely passing and in so doing uncovers the potent lyrical influence of a community hero.

Radio Favela
African Premiere

Feature. Brazil, 2002. 92 mins. Subtitles
Director: Helvecio Ratton

Four boys from the slums in Brazil dream of setting up a radio station that will express their reality and air their music. In no time the station gains a huge following and becomes notorious for its upfront attitude and spontaneous language. As the station reaches far beyond the extent of its airwaves our heroes are brought into a close clash with the authorities. Angry, fast and young, with an excellent hip hop soundtrack, Radio Favela has its finger on the pulse!

Rage Feature

UK, 2000. 95 mins.
Director: Newton Aduaka

Rage, an angry mixed race youth, is a gifted rapper with identity issues. Living in South London with his white mother, he badly misses his dead father. In music he can find himself - outside of it, South London remains an alienating urban jungle. When Rage and his two Brixton homeboys attempt a robbery to get the money they need to finance a record deal, things go terribly wrong. An unglamorous portrayal of two working class black boys and their middle class white friend, united by music and on the threshold of adulthood.

Suffering and Smiling

Nigeria/USA, 2007. 65 mins. Subtitles
Director: Dan Ollman

Suffering and Smiling is a compelling documentary that portrays Fela Anikulapo Kuti as a champion of the rights of common people and depicts Femi, his son and successor, as an equally militant political activist. Accounts by relatives characterize the men and their music. Occasional archive footage illustrates Nigeria’s history and the music mercilessly spells out the irreversible situation of corrupt leaders who place relationships with multinationals and personal gain before that of their people, in this oil rich but poverty stricken nation.

The Hands of Che Guevara

African Premiere

Holland, 2006. 58 mins. Subtitles
Director: Peter de Kock

In 1997, the body of Che Guevara was found under a landing strip in Bolivia. It seemed the final mystery about Che’s life had been resolved, until it became apparent his hands were missing. The Hands of Che Guevara follows the search for the missing hands of the Latin-American revolutionary Ernesto “Che” Guevara. It leads to a number of remarkable people; men and women who were prepared to risk their lives for two dead hands. And in their testimonies, a tale unfolds that is so bizarre and secret that it has, until now, been banished to the shadows of history.

Cuba: An African Odyssey

France / Egypt, 2007. 120 mins.
Director: Jihan El-Tahri

This enthralling documentary plots the intensive Cuban support for African revolutionary movements. Beginning with Che Guevara’s mission into Congo to avenge the death of Lumumba and then Cuba’s support of Amilcar Cabril’s uprising in Guinea-Bissau, the film traces the pivotal role played by Cuba’s internationalist policy in helping independence struggles on the African continent. Cuba’s military engagement in Angola involved 450,000 men, who fought alongside Angolan troops including in the battle of Cuito Carnavale This collaboration was central to the demise of apartheid and gives clue to why Fidel Castro was the first person outside the African continent to be visited by Nelson Mandela upon his release from Robben Island.

Salud!

USA, 2006. 93 mins. Subtitles
Director: Connie Field

A timely examination of human values and the health issues that affect us all, Salud! looks at the curious case of Cuba, a cash-strapped country with what the BBC calls “one of the world’s best health systems.” From the shores of Africa to the Americas, Salud! follows some of the 28,000 Cuban health professionals serving in 68 countries, and explores the hearts and minds of international medical students in Cuba, now numbering 30,000. Their stories bring home the competing agendas that mark the battle for global health and the complex realities confronting the movement to make healthcare everyone’s birthright.

Awards:
Pan African Film Festival – Audience Choice Award, Best Documentary.

Brothers in Arms

South Africa, 2007. 81 mins. Subtitles
Director: Jack Lewis

Brothers in Arms is a tale of two countries: South Africa and Cuba, and of a family separated by 40 years of exile. It tells the story of Ronald Herboldt, the only African to participate in the Cuban revolution, his love of his adopted country, his Cuban family and his determination to come home.
Winter in Baghdad
African Premiere

Spain, 2005. 78 mins. Subtitles
Director: Javier Corcuera

A beautifully crafted film that allows the viewer to integrate the political with the personal in the tragedy of Iraq that has unfolded since the war began in spring 2003. Through the winter of 2004, enduring constant violence, blackouts, and lack of basic necessities, a group of enterprising, and highly resilient children manage to make it to school. Some hold down jobs, which are not always strictly legal due to constantly shifting U.S. regulations. The children are open and endearing and through their stories, told within a forbidding environment, we learn of the true nature of this devastating war.

Awards:
2005 Los Angeles Film Festival, presented in association with Cinema Tropical - Winner Best Documentary.

Vanaja Feature

India/USA, 2006. 111 mins. Subtitles
Director: Rajnesh Domalpalli

A fortune-teller predicts that Vanaja, the 14 year-old daughter of a poor fisherman, will become a great dancer. She is hired as a farmhand in the house of a local landlady where her mischievous ways get her into constant trouble. Vanaja’s endearing qualities invite the attention of the landlady who embarks on a mission to teach her kuchipudi dance. When the landlady’s son – handsome, muscular and insecure – returns, sexual chemistry ignites between him and the now 15-year old Vanaja. When things turn ugly, the intersections of family and class are forced into collision.

The Great Bazaar  Feature

Mozambique, 2005. 56 mins. Subtitles
Director: Licinio Azevedo

In an African city suburb, 12-year-old Paito sells fritters outside his house to support his family. One day, a band of young robbers takes his money and he follows them to the big city to recover his losses. Searching for work, Paito stays in the major market square, a night time dormitory for homeless vendors. There he meets Xano, a boy of his age, whose insolent behavior and fearlessness are attractive to Paito. Displaying a natural head for business, Paito starts to make his money back. But those who robbed him are a constant threat to children trying to survive in the market.

Awards:
FIPA 2006 (Silver FIPA Award); Montreal Film Festival; Vancouver International Film Festival; Durban Festival (Best Short Film Award); Cinématographiques de Tampere Film Festival (Finland) and XVI Balafon Film Festival (Best Feature Film).

Ezra  Feature

Director: Newton Aduaka

Set within the Sierra Leone conflict, Ezra centres around an atrocious, drug-fuelled attack on a village by rebel soldiers. One of the attackers, young Ezra, was only seven when rebels abducted him for military training. Seven years later, Ezra, at once a victim and an aggressor, struggles to recall the details of the deadly raid in an attempt to quell his demons in a Truth and Reconciliation Commission type hearing. Then everything is cast in a new light when his mute sister reveals a long hidden secret. A forceful indictment of the use of child soldiers to further political ends.

On a Tightrope
African Premiere

Norway/Canada, 2006. 70 mins. Subtitles
Director: Petr Lom

In an orphanage in China, Uyghur children, the largest Muslim minority, study tightrope walking. Walking the tightrope is an age-old Uyghur tradition and the children’s feats are spectacular. The regime fears the Uyghurs separatist movement and forbids youngsters to profess their religion. After nine months of intense tightrope training, most children are told they have failed and will not be able to continue their course. Then, an elderly retired tightrope walker shows up and becomes their new coach. Lovingly, he teaches the children to walk the tightrope, this time with success.

Loose Change 2

African Premiere
USA, 2006. 89 mins.
Director: Dylan Avery

An independent documentary watched by millions on the web, with a central premise that the United States Government was, at the very least, criminally negligent in allowing the attacks of September 11th to occur. Loose Change 2 merely scratches the surface of information that points to a massive government cover-up regarding 9/11. Watch it and come to your own conclusions.

A Pair of Boots and a Bicycle

South Africa, 2007. 80 mins. Subtitles
Director: Vincent Moloi

When Vincent Moloi retraces the experience of black South African soldiers, recruited to fight the Nazi’s in the Second World War, he uncovers that these soldiers, so key to the Allies’ North Africa campaign, were denied arms and deployed in support units. Journeying from Soweto to El Alamien, he tells the tale of Job Maseko, a brave soldier and a hero who while in captivity in Tobruk, orchestrated the dramatic sabotage of a German supply ship. On his return to racist South Africa, Job Maseko received the Military Medal for bravery. Vincent’s brilliantly directed (check out the reconstructions and the interviews with veterans) and unusual film asks what makes men risk their lives for their oppressors? And when the war is over, what do they receive in return?

We hope that you enjoy the amazing selection of films showcased at this year’s festival. Did you know that when the Cinema Nouveau screened by Jameson screenings come to a close, the festival goes out to all nine provinces in South Africa via our extensive Outreach Programme? These screenings are critical to our vision of bringing films that matter to diverse audiences – universities, technikons and schools, community based organisations, NGOs, trade unions, and independant cinemas and theatres. We do this through a network of organisations, civil society groups, friends and supporters of the festival, people who recognise the power of film not just to document and entertain, but to inspire. If you are interested in hosting an outreach screening, please contact the festival office.

Bookings can be made:
- via the award-winning Ster-Kinekor Theatres website on www.sterkinekor.com
- on your W@P-enabled cellphone - www.sterkinekor.com
- via TicketLine – 08216789 (vas rates apply)
- at self-service terminals at the cinemas
- Box office

Tri Continental Film Festival is the producer of the festival and functions independently of Ster-Kinekor and Cinema Nouveau screened by Jameson.

Tri Continental Film Festival reserves the right to cancel or reschedule screenings without prior notice.
